

REFORM WAVE

Is Permanent in Opinion of Those Present at
Y. M. C. A. Meeting
Sunday

ATTY. KRICHBAUM SPOKE

Considerable interest was taken in the discussion at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. It was the last discussion of the club for the year, and considering the weather, it was the largest in point of attendance. The subject was "Is the Present Reform Wave Transitory or Permanent?" It was upheld by several that in their opinion the wave was but temporary, and that in the course of the next few decades, if not sooner, the interest would lag, and things would become even worse than they are now; namely, that if the saloon were put out of business within the near future, that should the wave be but transitory, they would come back with a vengeance which would make their present style of business appear as a shadow. This, they claimed, would increase the amount of crime in the country, and there would be murders, burglaries and a thousand other crimes, in comparison to the few of today. Others, however, contend that the wave was permanent, and that instead of public opinion lagging in the future, it would be even stronger against the evil than it is today. They argued that if evil was wiped out of the country, men would spend their money in ways which would be a benefit to their families and mankind, and that crime would be almost unknown. Attorney Charles Krichbaum gave a short talk on the reform wave, and stated that 20 or 30 years ago a man would have been considered insane to fight the trusts and saloons as he does today, and that when he did uphold the right, he was hooted as a fool and turncoat, as was the man who several years ago attempted to investigate the power of the Standard Oil company. During his attempt, the books were burned, and the public said that the company was right in burning them as it was nobody's business how the company was run so long as they furnished the people with oil at a smaller rate than had been charged. Mr. Krichbaum stated that in his opinion the reform wave was permanent.

At the close of the meeting a vote was taken to decide in their opinion whether the wave was transitory or permanent, the vote being unanimous in favor of the latter.

MME. GOULD

Appeared in Public With De Sagan Shortly After Talk With Brother

IS STILL DEFIANT

New York, April 5.—The fluctuating love affairs of Mme. Anna Gould and Prince De Sagan, whose courtship of the divorced wife of his cousin, Count Boul De Castellane, has hung in the balance ever since Mme. Gould's brother, Edwin, joined the other members of the Gould family in opposition to the marriage, took a turn decisively in favor of the prince today, when Mme. Gould consented to their public appearance together for the first time since their arrival in New York.

After receiving a call from Edwin and listening to his pleas that she give over the prince, Mme. Gould left her apartments in the hotel St. Regis at half past two this afternoon accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Morse and leader Morse and proceeded to the Hotel Plaza, where she had luncheon with the prince. When she returned to the St. Regis, an hour and a half later, it was in the company of her suitor. The pair remained alone together for several hours. This meeting, occurring only a scant half hour after a long session with Edwin, was evidently prearranged, and is regarded as a direct slap at her favorite brother's opposition to Helle's suit, as well as that offered by the family in general.
